Preface

Most students and teachers think that the word "Worksheet" is a synonym for the word "Boring." We envision hours of sitting still at a desk-silent busy working for them and hours of grading for us. But worksheets still have a place in your classroom? In an age of open inquiry and problem-based learning, your child can still find power in a simple paper and pencil activity by practicing MENTORS BASKET WEEKLY worksheets.

Achievers Model bring to your child an opportunity to develop academically as well as for the competitive World. The Learning Process of every child is dependent on One's Ability to think logically and reason Quickly and effectively. These two factors are hence very crucial to a child's progress in education.

Mentors Basket Achievers weekly workbook covers Mental Math, Smart English, Enhance Self-Development Skills. These Powerful worksheets can help in building number sense, computational thinking, and problem-solving skills in your child at beginning of the foundational years. Every Month we would be providing 3 Workbook and 1 Challenge Workbook, each of these are designed at different levels and standard wise. We would be providing upgraded workbooks, that makes the child to look forward to challenges. Weekly Workbook would be consisting of the following content:

It is a unique way to provide differentiated brain-building work for different learners.

Strong Foundation Helps to Build Brighter Future

Design Framework

The Sample Workbook Consist of the topics as under:

- Mental Maths - We want our students to be able to understand content and concepts. We also want to stretch them to think and approach problems in new ways. This editable graphic organizer can help them do that! Challenge the students to solve a math problem more than one way. Have them explain how and why they solved it with their given strategy. Over time, we can see how mathematics can be transformed into a subject that is not only fun but also challenges students' creativity and independent thinking.
- Smart English - The study of English Language Arts, or speaking, listening, reading, and writing, is critical both to academic success and to life beyond school. Without the skills learned in language arts, students cannot achieve any kind of mastery in any of their coursework. Good communication skills are necessary for every career field, so these on-demand workbooks give your students the mixed review of grammar, spelling, and writing skills that will enable them to practice their language arts skills in a fun and diverting manner, ensuring that the skills they have learned will Supplement their language.
- Self – Development – Children who become invested in self-improvement at a young age will likely experience many advantages in life. But it can be a little tricky to figure out exactly how to go about teaching kids about self-improvement. We have developed strategies that can help children to be more confident and in becoming the best version of themselves.

Smart English Worksheet 1

1. Read the Passage and answer the questions.

Betty Ford was born in 1918 in Chicago. Her family moved to Michigan. Betty loved to dance. After high school, she went to school to study dance. She met Martha Graham. She danced with one of Graham's troupes in New York City. After five years, Betty moved back to Michigan to be near family. She started a dance group there. She taught dance to children with handicaps. Betty met Gerald Ford in 1947. They were married the next year. Gerald was elected to Congress two weeks after the wedding. He was in Congress for twenty-five years. Betty took care of their four children. She volunteered a lot. Gerald was planning on retiring in 1973. However, President Nixon nominated Gerald to be the new vice president. Vice President Spiro Agnew was stepping down. Ford took Agnew's place. A short time later, Nixon resigned. Ford became the new president. Betty was the new First Lady. She continued to volunteer. Betty spoke her mind. She was not afraid to give her own opinions. Gerald was not elected to a full term as president. The Fords moved to California. In 1978, Betty checked into a treatment facility. She had been abusing prescription drugs and alcohol. Her family helped her get the help she needed to get better. Today, the Betty Ford Center is one of the best places in the world to get help for addictions. Gerald died in 2006. Betty died almost five years later at the age of 93.

ABOUT ASPARAGUS

By Beth Beutler

It was about 10:30 in the morning on a sunny Saturday in spring. I looked out my bedroom window and saw Grandpa out in his garden. I was blessed to live next door to my grandparents. I bounded downstairs and outside to talk to Grandpa, one of my best friends.

"Hi, Grandpa!" I greeted as I squatted down next to him.

"Hi, Squirt," Grandpa said, affectionately patting me on the shoulder.

"What are you doing today, Grandpa?"

"I'm picking asparagus," he replied.

I wrinkled my nose. "Yuk," I said.

Grandpa chuckled. "Asparagus is not so bad. I like how it tastes, and it's an interesting vegetable."

"How can asparagus be interesting?" I asked.

Grandpa stood up and stretched his long legs.

"Well, for one thing, after eating asparagus, you might notice a funny smell when you use the restroom," he said with a wink.

My eyes opened wide. "What?"

Grandpa went on. "When some people eat asparagus, their bodies convert the nutrients into something that can cause urine to have a funny smell. It's not alarming. Just interesting!"

"What else do you know about asparagus, Grandpa? You've been growing it a long time."

"Yes. Grandma and I really like freshly steamed asparagus stalks with a little bit of butter. Yum!"

Grandpa and I started strolling toward the carrot patch as he told me more.

"Asparagus is related to the lily family. It is a cousin to garlic and onions, but it doesn't smell as strong."

"Except when you use the restroom, right, Grandpa?"

A laugh erupted from Grandpa's belly. "That's right, Squirt."

Grandpa went on. "Asparagus can be green, white, or purple. I start mine with seeds, which form a crown. I then plant the crown, and the asparagus spears grow year after year. It's great that I don't have to re-plant them. Because they come back each year, they are called "perennials."

"I still don't like them, Grandpa."

"It would be great if you could learn to, Squirt. Asparagus contains potassium, which is good for your muscles. It also has vitamin C, which helps you stay healthy. Plus, you can eat it alone or mixed with other vegetables, rice, or pasta."

I thought about that. Maybe I could learn to like asparagus. "Okay, Grandpa, I'll try to learn to like it. It's funny how something that can cause a bad smell can also help me feel good!"

Grandpa and I laughed. "Let's go pick some for lunch," Grandpa suggested, and back to the asparagus patch
