Preface

Most students and teachers think that the word "Worksheet" is a synonym for the word "Boring." We envision hours of sitting still at a desk-silent busy working for them and hours of grading for us. But worksheets still have a place in your classroom? In an age of open inquiry and problem-based learning, your child can still find power in a simple paper and pencil activity by practicing MENTORS BASKET WEEKLY worksheets.

Achievers Model bring to your child an opportunity to develop academically as well as for the competitive World. The Learning Process of every child is dependent on One's Ability to think logically and reason Quickly and effectively. These two factors are hence very crucial to a child's progress in education.

Mentors Basket Achievers weekly workbook covers Mental Math, Smart English, Enhance Self-Development Skills. These Powerful worksheets can help in building number sense, computational thinking, and problem-solving skills in your child at beginning of the foundational years. Every Month we would be providing 3 Workbook and 1 Challenge Workbook, each of these are designed at different levels and standard wise. We would be providing upgraded workbooks, that makes the child to look forward to challenges. Weekly Workbook would be consisting of the following content:

It is a unique way to provide differentiated brain-building work for different learners.

Strong Foundation Helps to Build Brighter Future

Design Framework

The Sample Workbook Consist of the topics as under:

- Mental Maths - We want our students to be able to understand content and concepts. We also want to stretch them to think and approach problems in new ways. This editable graphic organizer can help them do that! Challenge the students to solve a math problem more than one way. Have them explain how and why they solved it with their given strategy. Over time, we can see how mathematics can be transformed into a subject that is not only fun but also challenges students' creativity and independent thinking.
- Smart English - The study of English Language Arts, or speaking, listening, reading, and writing, is critical both to academic success and to life beyond school. Without the skills learned in language arts, students cannot achieve any kind of mastery in any of their coursework. Good communication skills are necessary for every career field, so these on-demand workbooks give your students the mixed review of grammar, spelling, and writing skills that will enable them to practice their language arts skills in a fun and diverting manner, ensuring that the skills they have learned will Supplement their language.
- Self – Development – Children who become invested in self-improvement at a young age will likely experience many advantages in life. But it can be a little tricky to figure out exactly how to go about teaching kids about self-improvement. We have developed strategies that can help children to be more confident and in becoming the best version of themselves.

Great Minds: Martin Luther King Jr.

by Lydia Lukidis

You probably know about Martin Luther King Jr. He was a civil rights activist. And he made that famous "I Have a Dream" speech. But he did so much more than that. Let's take a closer look at his life and what he accomplished.

King was born in 1929 in Atlanta. His father was a preacher and his mother was a teacher. He had an older sister and a younger brother. When he was in high school, he was so smart that he skipped two grades. He went to Morehouse College when he was only 15 years old, and got a degree in sociology. He was inspired by his father and later got a divinity degree. After that, he went to Boston University and got his doctor's degree in theology. This is why people call him Dr. King.

When he was younger, he experienced racism. He also saw racism against the African American community in general. Segregation was part of life at that time. That's when different races were kept separate and not given the same rights. For example, African Americans weren't given the same chances when it came to education, jobs, or transportation. Segregation was part of the law in the American South and other places in the United States at that time.

King wanted to do something about this. He wanted to make the world a better place. So he fought for equal rights for African Americans. This is what the civil rights movement was all about. He was an activist during the 1950s and 1960s. He wanted people to understand what was going on and that it was not fair. He also wanted to change the laws. He led many peaceful protests to create this change. He was not only the leader of the civil rights movement, but he also helped start it.

One of his first protests was the Montgomery Bus Boycott. (You might remember that during this time Rosa Parks had refused to give up her seat to a white man when she was on a bus. She was arrested on the spot.) King fought against the public transportation system in Montgomery. The protest lasted 382 days. It was not an easy battle. King was arrested and his house was bombed. But in the end, King was happy to see that segregation on Montgomery buses ended. African Americans could sit wherever they wanted.

people who had less money. It didn't seem fair to him that people were mistreated just for being who they were. In 1953, King met and married Coretta Scott King. She was also passionate about fighting for equality. Together, they had 4 children.

King was killed in 1968. But his legacy will live on forever. His speeches still inspire us today, and he is still seen as one of the best public speakers. He traveled more than six million miles and gave speeches more than 2,500 times. He was the youngest person to ever win the Nobel Peace Prize. Martin Luther King Jr. Day was even created in his honor. He became the only non-president to have a national holiday in remembrance of him.

“ I have a dream that one day this nation will rise up, live out the true meaning of its creed: ‘We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal.’ ”

– Martin Luther King Jr.

King continued to fight for equality. In 1963, he helped organize the "March on Washington." He wanted to help end segregation in public schools, end discrimination in jobs, and protect the African Americans from police abuse. Over 250,000 people joined the march. That's when King gave his famous "I Have a Dream" speech. The speech was very powerful. And the march was successful. A year later, the Civil Rights Act was passed and African Americans were given their rights.

King never backed down in his fight for justice, even when his life was in danger. And he didn't just fight for African Americans. He fought for equality for everyone. He fought for people of different religions. He also fought for

My Journal - Knowing about SELF ESTEEM

What is self-esteem? Self-esteem is how we value ourselves; it is how we perceive our value to the world and how valuable we think we are to others. Self-esteem affects our trust in others, our relationships, our work – nearly every part of our lives. Positive self-esteem gives us the strength and flexibility to take charge of our lives and grow from our mistakes without the fear of rejection.

Following are some outward signs of positive self-esteem:

- Confidence
- Self-direction
- Non-blaming behaviour
- An awareness of personal strengths
- An ability to make mistakes and learn from them
- An ability to accept mistakes from others
- Optimism
- An ability to solve problems
- An independent and cooperative attitude
- Feeling comfortable with a wide range of emotions
- An ability to trust others
- A good sense of personal limitations
- Good self-care
- The ability to say no

What is low self-esteem?

Low self-esteem is a debilitating condition that keeps individuals from realizing their full potential. A person with low self-esteem feels unworthy, incapable, and incompetent. In fact, because the person with low self-esteem feels so poorly about him or herself, these feelings may cause the person's continued low self-esteem.

Here are some signs of low self-esteem:

- Negative view of life
- Perfectionist attitude
- Mistrusting others – even those who show signs of affection
- Blaming behaviour
- Fear of taking risks
- Feelings of being unloved and unlovable
- Dependence – letting others make decisions
- Fear of being ridiculed

How can you raise low self-esteem?

Feelings of low self-esteem often build up over a lifetime, and letting go of ingrained feelings and behaviours is not an easy task. It may take time, hard work, and it may require professional counselling. But there are some simple, positive thinking techniques that can be used to help improve self-esteem. These are called affirmations.

Using affirmations to stop negative self-talk is a simple, positive way to help increase self-esteem. Affirmations are encouraging messages we can give ourselves every day until they become part of our feelings and beliefs. Affirmations work best when a person is relaxed. But since people are often upset when they are giving themselves negative self-messages, they may need to counter negative messages with positive ones.

For example, replace the message “I made a stupid mistake, and I am no good at this job,” with “Yes, I made a mistake but I have learned from it, and now I can a better job.” Begin each day by looking in the mirror and giving yourself a positive message. The following affirmations can help you to work toward a positive self-image:

- I respect myself and others
- I am lovable and likable
- I am confident, and it shows
- I care about myself
- I am creating loving, healthy relationships
- I am a good friend to myself and others
- I accept myself just as I am
- I look great
- Life is good, and I like being a part of it
